I. OBJECTIVES

Just as Canadians buy foreign products, so do many buyers abroad buy Canadian ones – Italian pasta makers insist on prairie durum wheat, Emiratis drink Second Cup coffee in the Gulf, Indonesians buy BlackBerry smartphones, and countries worldwide buy Bombardier high-speed trains. It is hard to think today of an organization or individual whose daily life is not, in one way or another, touched by foreign products. As a result, a good grasp of the characteristics of foreign markets and how they work, and of the principles and methods of strategic international marketing, has become a must for many managers. This is especially so in Canada, which exports about a third of its GDP and is one of the world’s major trading nations.

The main objective of this course is to develop a managerial and strategic understanding of international marketing, with emphasis on the need to improve the international competitiveness and performance of Canadian business. More specifically, this course will:

- examine the role of marketing in world markets and review its theoretical justification;
- provide an overview of Canadian business in the international context (structure, problems and opportunities, causes and results of performance, etc.);
- study marketing theory and management in light of vastly different political, cultural, legal, and economic environments abroad; and
- relate Canadian business needs to problems and opportunities in foreign markets.

I hope this course will be challenging, fun, and interesting, but it is not designed to be easy. It deals with cutting edge and mostly “foreign” managerial issues, and so it covers terrain that will often be unfamiliar. Connecting the course effectively to your other learning and to a global management mindset requires a high level of participation and performance. If you decide to take the course, I trust you will join me in giving your “100%++” to help enrich your classmates, me, others in your future, and of course yourself.

II. COURSE DESCRIPTION AND PREREQUISITES

Description: “The marketing function in international markets from a managerial perspective. Environments of foreign markets in relation to the marketing management functions of product, price, distribution and communication strategy and marketing research. International expansion methods, joint ventures and other business alliances, and international marketing.”

Prerequisites: “Third-year standing and BUSI 2204 or BUSI 2208 with a grade of C- or higher.”
III. READING MATERIALS

Readings on reserve through Ares (other readings may be assigned from time to time):

a. Mel Hurtig, "Canada on a Platter"; in International Business, ed. by K.C. Dhawan)

b. Harold Crookell, "Fortress Canada in an Interdependent World"; Business Quarterly

c. IKON Research Group, "Made in Canada', Eh? A Cross-National and Longitudinal Study of Consumer Views on the Competitiveness of Canadian Products"

d. Paul Beamish and Hugh Munro, "The Export Performance of Small & Medium-Sized Canadian Manufacturers"; Canadian Journal of Administrative Sciences

e. Nicolas Papadopoulos and Derek Jansen, "Target Countries for Export"; monograph

Note: Having simply "taken" basic marketing (the course prerequisite) is not enough. The operating assumption in this course is that you actually have a good working knowledge of marketing basics including such core concepts as SWOT analysis, segmentation, positioning, the product life cycle, break-even analysis, marketing mix strategy, and so on. If you have any doubt that your knowledge of basic marketing is substantive and current, an additional reading requirement due on Session 2 is: "Any intro marketing text."

IV. METHOD AND EVALUATION

See “Summary of Evaluation” later in this section for due dates and marking weights. The due dates are also shown in “V. Class Schedule”.

1. Class Participation (CP)

CP is the classroom equivalent to professionals' participation in meetings. It is an important part of success in this course and is a specific assignment, not an option. There is no “automatic minimum” – marks range from 0% to 100%, as with all other assignments. Effective participation means (a) active, (b) substantive, and (c) continuous (d) contribution; occasional nonsubstantive comments or questions do not meet this requirement. Performance is assessed by the instructor based on each participant's contribution, which may take the form, among others, of raising or answering questions, offering comments, enriching the class with relevant items of interest from the media or personal experiences, taking part in brief in-class and/or take-home quizzes, cases, or other exercises, and overall effort throughout the term. To participate, one has to be in class; so, while there is no specific requirement for attendance, it also affects the CP evaluation.

2. Test

This in-class test will help consolidate the knowledge that you acquire. It will consist of short essays and will take about one-half of a class session.

3.a. Annotated Bibliography (AB) and 3.b.Comprehensive Project (COMP)

These are team projects, interrelated but independent of each other. The objective of the AB is to carry out a review of current research in a chosen area, and of the COMP to develop a marketing strategy for introducing a selected product in a selected foreign market. Each AB team will have 2-3 members (TBD based on class size), and each COMP team will consist of two AB teams. AB themes can be selected to provide useful background for the COMP. Each of the AB and COMP require a separate formal proposal and written final report. The COMPs will also be presented in class. All of the component parts will form part of the total marks assigned to each project.

The AB report and the COMP report and presentation deck must be submitted both in hard copy and by email.

Please see the Appendix for detailed guidelines on these two assignments.

Important Notes on Assignments and Evaluation

a. All page limits specified in this outline, including the appendices, are “hard” and non-negotiable; in other words, aim for the upper limit in each case (e.g., a 1-page submission for an assignment with a 5-page limit will be judged as insufficient) but do not exceed it. Material beyond the stated limit will not be read and the remaining submission will be judged on its merits. For fairness and comparability, all take-home written work must be submitted typed, double-spaced, on letter-size paper, with 2.5 cm margins all-round, in Times-Roman 12, Arial 11, or equivalent font.

b. In addition to content, all written work will be graded for grammar, spelling, writing style, and organization and presentation of the material.

c. Cheating, plagiarism, and other instructional offences are not tolerated and can have severe penalties. In group work, all group members are responsible jointly and severally for the integrity of the submitted work. Please see the University’s statement on plagiarism in the attached sheet. For further help in these matters, you are strongly encouraged to consult:
   - The University guide, at <http://www1.carleton.ca/studentaffairs/academic-integrity/>; and

d. For the mid-term test, you may bring a single sheet of letter-sized paper with notes on one side only providing they can be read without magnification tools.

e. The COMP presentations will be evaluated 50/50 by the class and the instructor.

f. For the team assignments, I strongly encourage you to read and comply with the statement from the Sprott School of Business concerning “group work”, in the attached page, and the guidelines on the webpage that is mentioned therein.

g. Each student must submit, by Session 12, an independent evaluation of each team member's (including self) contribution to the COMP, on a form that I will supply in-class. If the mean mark given a student by his/her colleagues is at considerable variance (lower or higher) from his/her marks for other class work (test, CP, AB), then his/her COMP mark will be adjusted accordingly.

h. All assignments are normally marked and returned in-class one week after submission; if a student is absent when an assignment is returned, it will be available for pick-up until the end of classes during office hours. Assignments submitted during the last week of classes can be picked up until the end of the term by arrangement with the instructor.

i. Supplemental and grade raising examinations are not available in this course.

j. Deadline extensions will not be granted, late assignments will not be accepted, and missed tests, quizzes, etc. will not be rescheduled except for university-approved reasons (e.g., on medical grounds and with appropriate documentation as specified in the attached sheet).

k. The above evaluation plan may have to be changed if changing class conditions so warrant.
V. CLASS SCHEDULE

The timing of topic coverage is approximate and this schedule may be modified depending on the level of interest in the subjects to be discussed. It is each participant’s responsibility to keep up to date with the overall progress of the course as the term unfolds, and with any specific changes announced in class.

VI. OTHER

1. Email
This course does not use centralized e-portals (e.g., WebCT). All e-communication, including distribution of course materials to the class, submission of assignments indicated in this outline, etc., will be directly by email between the instructor, the TA, and the students. Students who wish a reply from the instructor or TA must use their Connect account when communicating by e-mail. My goal is to answer emails within 48 hours during the working week.

2. Basic norms for this class
The attached document “Basic norms for this class: A call to action for learning and success through commitment” is considered to be an integral part of this course outline.

3. Satisfactory in-term performance
The criteria for satisfactory in-term performance are (a) taking the mid-term test, and (b) participating as a team member in the AB (proposal and main report) and COMP (proposal), with a minimum average grade of 50% in these four assignments. Unsatisfactory in-term performance will lead to failure in the course regardless of performance in the final two components of the COMP (presentation and report). Non-participation in the final two components of the COMP (presentation and report) will result in a grad of FND (Failure with No Deferral).
I. ANNOTATED BIBLIOGRAPHY GUIDELINES

Purpose

This assignment focuses on the theory and research side of the course theme using articles in academic journals as the base. An AB goes beyond a simple listing of references – it also summarizes the main points of each article, to allow researchers to assess specific aspects of those that appear to be interesting and decide which may be worth reading in full. Developing an AB is one of the best ways to familiarize one’s self with current knowledge in a selected area.

Selecting a Topic to Propose

Any topic is acceptable so long as it reflects a research, conceptual, or theoretical perspective on an international marketing issue. Examples of acceptable topics include "The Japanese Distribution System", "Marketing in LDCs", “Firm Size Effects on Export Success”, or "Modes of International Expansion". Topics that are too applied in orientation (e.g., "How to Sell Copiers to Japan") or not directly related to the theme of the course (e.g., "International Personnel Management") do not meet the criteria for this project.

Content

1. The AB proposal must include enough information to enable the reader to assess the merit and feasibility of what is being proposed. It should include, at the least:
   a. Team member names and division of work.
   b. Proposed topic and rationale. Recall that the AB can be related to the COMP but is an independent assignment. Therefore, the rationale for the AB topic can not just be "it will help us with the COMP" – it must be primarily related to the AB topic itself, viewed on its own merits.
   c. A specific outline of information sources to be used. Recall that, since it is you who proposes, once the proposal is accepted it becomes the “contract” for this assignment – therefore, ensure you can deliver on your promise! Check the library to ensure there are enough suitable articles (see below) for your chosen theme, and do not just say "we will use journals X and Y" – specify a few sample articles, to indicate that (a) you have understood the type of articles your topic requires and (b) there are enough articles of the kind you will need.

2. The AB report must include a set of article annotations and a brief commentary.
   a. Articles. Each AB must include four (4) academic articles per team member. Lengthy works such as books, and short journalistic-type articles from magazines, newspapers, the Web, etc., are not eligible. The articles must be top-notch and represent current thinking, published within the last 10 years unless they are "classics". To secure good entries you must identify a fair number of candidates, since some will not meet the quality criterion. Each annotation must include the purpose, method, and main findings/conclusions of the study being reported. A photocopy of the 1st page of each submitted article must be appended to your report.

   b. Commentary. The purpose of the commentary is to offer a brief critical overview of the research in the chosen field, based on the articles the team reviewed. You may address questions such as, but not limited to: How easy/difficult was it to locate (quality) articles? Why? Why is this topic attracting research interest? What main issues seem to be of interest within it? What schools of thought seem to prevail? What is the topic’s importance to academics or practitioners? What methodological approaches do researchers favour? If one wants to research this topic more, which sources should one consult?

c. Suggested Sources for Articles

Conference proceedings: Admin. Sciences Association of Canada (International Business and Marketing divisions), European Marketing Academy, American Marketing Association, and Academy of Marketing Science conferences (Annual Conference, World Marketing Congress, Cultural Perspectives on Marketing / formerly Multicultural Marketing Conference).

Chapters in edited books: These are academic/research books that consist of chapters contributed by various different authors (i.e., each chapter authored by a different person[s]).

Note: The following are not eligible: Articles from newspapers and magazines (e.g., Canadian Business, Report on Business, Marketing, National Post, Business Week, Fortune, Newsweek, Time, Advertising Age, South Asia Trade Review), the Web (except e-versions of journals such as those listed above), and other such sources.

Format

This assignment has very specific and strict format guidelines intended to familiarize you with the reporting requirements of the kind that is the rule in business. Specifically:

1. AB Proposal length: up to two pages, all inclusive.

2. AB Report:
   a. The write-up for each article must include:
      - The full reference (author's name, title, source, date, page numbers) in proper bibliographic form. Any style will do (e.g., Turabian, Chicago, APA) so long as it is used consistently for all articles. See the “Paper Writing Guidelines” mentioned in item (a) of “Important Notes on Evaluation”, in the main part of the course outline, for assistance.
      - The annotation, which must be a maximum of two (2) paragraphs long, with each paragraph between a minimum of five (5) and a maximum of ten (10) lines long.
      - A photocopy of the front page of each submitted article must be appended to the hard copy of the report.
   b. The commentary must be between a minimum of three (3) and a maximum of five (5) pages long.
   c. Paragraphs, annotations, and commentaries shorter than the minimum specifications in (a) and (b) above will be considered as “not submitted” and will not be read at all. Conversely, in those exceeding the maximum length (i.e., annotations with 3+ paragraphs or with a paragraph(s) having 11+ lines, and/or commentaries with 6+ pages), the excess content will not be read and the remainder will be considered on its merits regardless of what is missing.

Reminder: The AB report must be submitted both in hard copy and by email.
II. COMPREHENSIVE PROJECT GUIDELINES

Purpose

This assignment focuses on the applied side of the course theme. It makes it possible to familiarize one's self with strategic planning and decision making in international marketing and with the applied information sources that are available to managers for researching foreign markets. The project must focus on the practical application of the concepts learned in the course (e.g., using international market selection theory to guide actual target country choice).

Topic Selection and Proposal

Any product-market combination is acceptable so long as a convincing case can be made about it. As with the AB, since you are the proposer, once the proposal is accepted it becomes the “contract” for the COMP – therefore, ensure you choose a feasible project! Any Canadian product may be selected (e.g., industrial/consumer, tangible/intangible, product/idea/person/place), whether it already exists (preferred; ideally with the cooperation of its producer) or is fictitious. The target "market" may be any country or region, or even "the world" (note: the "home" market of international students needs special permission). Select a product and market that are of interest to you, lend themselves to applied research, and fit each other. For example, Brand X Snow Shovels to Sweden, Celine Dion to EU, Second Cup to Brazil, or Family Planning to Egypt meet these criteria. Candu Reactor to PRC and Photographic Paper to Senegal do not (product too complex or market too small, relative lack of published information, etc.).

Research

This project requires considerable legwork, creativity, and know-how. A good understanding of the chosen product and market is essential, and effective team work is a must. Assigning specific duties to each team member beforehand, and specifying deadlines for interim stages, can help greatly in making the project a success. (Reminder: See item (f) under “Important Notes on Evaluation” in the main part of the course outline.) Unlike the AB, research for the COMP will focus on applied information plus any relevant insights from the AB itself.

Secondary research is a cornerstone of success for this project. We are fortunate in Ottawa to have access to ample information for international marketing, including standard library sources (e.g. magazines, books, UN, EU, IMF, WTO, etc. publications); government departments (e.g. DFAIT), embassies, international and trade organizations, and so on. Feel free to use information from the Web, but if you do, be mindful to not (a) let the medium obscure the message (posted information often is of dubious quality; you are responsible for assessing the credibility of what you use); and, (b) drown your target reader and yourselves in useless information (e.g., a list of 2,457 Web “hits” does not prove that one has done “research”).

Content, Organization, and Approach

1. As with the AB, the COMP proposal must include enough information to enable the reader to assess the merits of the proposed project. Typically, it will specify the team members’ names and duties, whom the team represents (e.g. management, consultants), product-market choice and rationale, relationship to the associated AB projects, and timetable, and include an outline of the intended approach, specific information sources (in addition to AB), and expected results.

2. As with any similar task, the COMP project itself should begin with gathering and analyzing information and proceed to setting objectives, establishing criteria and evaluating alternatives, and recommendations. The final report should include an Executive Summary, Table of Contents, References, and, normally, the following main sections (not necessarily in this order – the exact topics, and the sequence, should be chosen depending on the nature of the project):

a. Introduction (product description, company background, problem statement, etc.)
b. Rationale for selecting the chosen country and analysis of the country (environment, opportunities and threats, market, buyer characteristics)
c. Objectives, limitations, criteria
d. Selection of and rationale for chosen mode of entry into the target country
e. Segmentation within the chosen country, target market selection
f. Marketing mix (alternatives, strategies, and tactics for each element of the mix)
g. Action plan, timetable, budget (how/when/at what cost/etc. will strategy be implemented)

Format

Unlike the AB, the formatting requirements for the COMP are simple: The proposal should be up to four (4) pages long, all inclusive. There is no length limitation for the final project report itself (but avoid excessively lengthy appendices with information of marginal value).

Presentation

About 20'-30' will be available for each COMP presentation (exact length TBD depending on class size), including 5'-10' for questions and discussion. The presentation should be designed so as to highlight the elements of the project and need not be structured to match the written report. The presentation format leaves considerable room for creativity, within reason. AV aids enhance the effectiveness of presentations and help make optimal use of time (e.g. a full table or chart can be shown while you discuss only one part of it). Therefore, the use of AV aids is required and each team is responsible for ensuring the availability of its chosen equipment. Multi-media presentations are encouraged, but (a) do not let the technology cloud the substance, and (b) ensure you have backups for the eventuality of equipment failure.

Reminder: The report and presentation deck must be submitted both in hard copy and by email.

III. RELATING THE ANNOTATED BIBLIOGRAPHY TO THE PROJECT

Since "there is no better practice than a good theory", choosing AB topics that can (and should) be used as theoretical background for the COMP will help (the ABs provide useful know-how for the COMP, and the COMP helps to show how practical theory can be). To find good topics, ask such questions as: What are the unique underlying characteristics and/or component parts of the COMP topic? What theoretical knowledge might be available that would help a manager develop the marketing plan? Following are four examples:

III. BASIC NORMS FOR THIS CLASS:
A CALL TO ACTION FOR LEARNING AND SUCCESS THROUGH COMMITMENT

You are investing a lot of time, energy, and money in your education. Your chances of earning a potential return on your investment in each course end when each course does.

Learning and success in your education requires your active commitment to it. You will be successful in this course if during class and homework times you are prepared to engage in and commit to the learning process. I am prepared to do everything I can to help you.

Required calculator in BUSI course examinations

Only Texas Instruments BA II Plus calculators will be permitted in all Business course examinations. This calculator is available in the campus bookstore (1st floor, University Centre) and at various other off-campus retail stores.

Group work

The Sprott School of Business encourages group assignments in the school for several reasons. They provide you with opportunities to develop and enhance interpersonal, communication, leadership, follower-ship and other group skills. Group assignments are also good for learning integrative skills for putting together a complex task. Your professor may assign one or more group tasks/assignments/projects in this course. If you have a group assignment you may find the resources at http://sprott.carleton.ca/academic_programs/groupwork useful. Before embarking on a specific problem as a group, it is your responsibility to ensure that the problem is meant to be a group assignment and not an individual one.

Medical certificate

Please note that in all occasions that call for a medical certificate you must use or furnish the information demanded in the standard university form. http://www2.carleton.ca/registrar/forms/

Persons with disabilities

Students with disabilities requiring academic accommodations in this course must register with the Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) for a formal evaluation of disability-related needs. Documented disabilities could include but are not limited to mobility/physical impairments, specific Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/psychological disabilities, sensory disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), and chronic medical conditions. Registered PMC students are required to contact the PMC, 613-520-6608, every term to ensure that I receive your Letter of Accommodation, no later than two weeks before the first assignment is due or the first in-class test/midterm requiring accommodations. If you only require accommodations for your formally scheduled exam(s) in this course, please submit your request for accommodations to PMC by the deadlines published on the PMC website.

Religious observance

Students requesting academic accommodation on the basis of religious observance should make a formal, written request to their instructors for alternate dates and/or means of satisfying academic requirements. Such requests should be made during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist, but no later than two weeks before the compulsory academic event. Accommodation is to be worked out directly and on an individual basis between the student and the instructor(s) involved. Instructors will make accommodations in a way that avoids academic disadvantage to the student. Students or instructors who have questions or want to confirm accommodation eligibility of a religious event or practice may refer to the Equity Services website for a list of holy days and Carleton's Academic Accommodation policies, or may contact an Equity Services Advisor in the Equity Services Department for assistance.

Pregnancy

Pregnant students requiring academic accommodations are encouraged to contact an Equity Advisor in Equity Services to complete a letter of accommodation. The student must then make an appointment to discuss her needs with the instructor at least two weeks prior to the first academic event in which it is anticipated the accommodation will be required.

Plagiarism
The University Senate defines plagiarism in the regulations on instructional offenses as: "to use and pass off as one's own idea or product work of another without expressly giving credit to another."

Borrowing someone else's answers, unauthorized possession of tests or answers to tests, or possession of material designed in answering exam questions, are also subject to university policy regarding instructional offences. For more information on Carleton University’s Academic Integrity Policy, consult: http://www1.carleton.ca/studentaffairs/academic-integrity/
