EVALUATION:

Assignment	Percentage of grade	Due Date/Assigned Time(s)
Group Presentation	20%	As per assigned schedule
Small Group Assignments and Final Group Paper	30%	Work time in class
Final Exam	50%	In the official exam time
Total	100%

Assignments must be handed in on time through Brightspace or in class. Late assignments will be penalized as follows: Within the first 24 hours 20% grade reduction, within 48 hours 40% grade reduction, after which the assignment will not be accepted for grading.

EXAM and GRADES:

The final exam will be held during the official exam time. The exam will be short and long essay-style question(s). The exams will test students on materials covered in the course (lecture, slides, videos, text chapters outlined in syllabus, all assigned readings, assignments, discussions, speaker etc.). Students who are unable to write a final examination because of a serious illness/emergency or other circumstances beyond their control may apply for accommodation. Normally, the accommodation for a missed final examination will be granting the student the opportunity to write a deferred examination. Granting of a deferred exam is subject to University Academic Regulations found here: https://calendar.carleton.ca/undergrad/regulations/academicregulationsoftheuniversity/

NB: Students must complete the group assignments, the presentation and the final exam in order to pass this course.

Class Design

The class will be in person. Class will be divided into two components - the lecture with presentation and for some classes time working on a group assignment. Students are responsible for preparing for class by reading the assigned text material and going over all posted course material:

1. Prep for Class. The basis for the lectures will be the course textbook and recent and current media events. The lecture PowerPoint slides will be available each week. Students will be expected to review class material in advance of the class.

- 2. Group Presentation. The group presentation information will be provided the first class. Groups will be formed within the first week in time for the first group presentation the second week of class.
- 3. Group Small Assignments and Final Paper. During the course there will be a group (n=6) submission completed during class time. You will also need to pull all the individual submissions into one paper addressing any feedback.
- 4. The Final Exam. Will be based on all course content.

Grading Concerns:

If a student has a concern about a grade given to an assignment, presentation or paper (e.g. a grade given relative to the material they have written or presented) follow these procedures:

- 1. Write an email to the professor explaining your concern. It is not enough to request a re-grading, you need to explain why you believe the regrade is needed.
- 2. The grading concern will be addressed by the professor or sent to the TA for consideration.
- 3. The concern will be addressed and an explanation will be provided by email. It is possible the submission will be fully re-graded particularly if the concern raised is frivolous, unsubstantiated or excessive and might result in a lower grade. If the concern is more general (e.g. how can I improve my grade in the future) then discussions through email, an person meeting or a Zoom appointment/phone call should be booked with the professor/or TA to discuss this issue further.

NOTE: You are responsible for maintaining copies of all your submissions on Brightspace until you have received your final grade and if for any reason you wish to discuss your final grade. You may be required to resubmit your assignment in the event of a grade dispute or grade re-evaluation if the assignment posted on Brightspace is corrupted or inaccessible. You are responsible for verifying that all your submissions on Brightspace are loaded properly, on time and are accessible.

Group Assignments for Presentation and Groups for In-class Work: There will be group assignments held during class in person. The groups be 6 students each. Group members must be in the same course section. If a student does not attend class they are not in the group for that assignment. When you complete group work you are responsible for each group member keeping a copy before submitting. The purpose of doing this is for your records.

Participation in class: In class participation is encouraged as long as it is focused and relevant. Disrespectful behaviour (e.g. interrupting class, dominating conversations, showing a lack of patience and respect when IT issues arise, misusing the chat function, speaking unfavourably and inappropriately about those in the class, the professor or the TA) will result in a grade deduction.

Satisfactory In-term Performance

- 1. The requirement for satisfactory in-term performance is set at 50% of the presentation and exam
- 2. The criteria and the standard(s) for satisfactory in-term performance are as follow(s):
 - a. Respectable behaviour in the classroom
 - b. Participating in the presentation and writing the final exam
 - c. Being a responsible group member in all group work
 - d. Obtaining at least 50% in each of your presentation and final exam.

3. Unless an exception is made, unsatisfactory in-term performance in this course will lead to failure in this course (regardless of the performance in the final exam) and FND grade in this course (in case of a missed final exam).

Online/Classroom Protocol

Sprott expects and supports inclusive, supportive and respectful environments online and in person - this includes all student behaviour online, in video and in chat rooms. Disrespectful behaviour will not be tolerated. All students are held to the standards under the Student Rights & Responsibility Policy:

- Governs student behaviour participating in Carleton activities (academic and non-academic).
- Category 1 violations include disruption, unauthorized entry, failure to comply or identify, mischief, and the like.

Further the Academic Integrity Policy states: It is a violation of the standards of academic integrity for a student registered in a class to disrupt the class or other period of instruction. Sanctions range from educational workshops to exclusion from university facilities, to expulsion from campus. Note that, by default, all chats and live sessions are recorded.

Anyone (course instructors and students both) wishing to express concern over online behaviour, either within class or during teamwork, please contact: classroomprotocol@sprott.carleton.ca

Group assignments are also good for learning integrative skills for putting together a complex task. Your professor may assign one or more group tasks/assignments/projects in this course. Before embarking on a specific problem as a group, it is your responsibility to ensure that the problem is meant to be a group assignment and not an individual one.

In accordance with the Carleton University Undergraduate Calendar (p 34), the letter grades assigned in this course will have the following percentage equivalents:

Academic Integrity

Violations of academic integrity are a serious academic offence. Violations of academic integrity – presenting another's ideas, arguments, words or images as your own, using unauthorized material, misrepresentation, fabricating or misrepresenting research data, unauthorized co-operation or collaboration or completing work for another student – weaken the quality of the degree and will not be tolerated.

Process: If an alleged violation occurs, all relevant documentation will be forwarded to the Dean. If the allegation proves true, the penalties may include; a grade of Failure on the submitted work and/or course; academic probation; a refusal of permission to continue or to register in a specific degree program; suspension from full-time studies; suspension from all studies at Carleton; expulsion from Carleton, amongst others. For a first offence, at a minimum, the penalty assigned will normally be a zero on the submitted work and at least a minimum full grade reduction of the final course grade. For a second offence, at a minimum, the penalty assigned will normally lead to a suspension from studies.

Students are expected to familiarize themselves with and follow the Carleton University Student Academic Integrity Policy which is available, along with resources for compliance at: https://carleton.ca/registrar/academic-integrity/.
