Carleton Calendar Description

Analysis and evaluation of the organization's corporate and business strategies; integration and synthesis of knowledge acquired in the program by application of acquired functional skills to strategic decision making.

Instructor's Description:

Strategic Management is the Sprott School of Business's capstone course. Completed in the final (4th) year of study in the undergraduate program, this course focuses on strategy making in for-profit business corporations. Students are required to select a publicly traded firm on the NYSE, NASDAQ or TSX to research and analyze it intensively and extensively. Each group must identify and evaluate opportunities and threats in the macro and industry environments of the selected firm and analyze the firm's strengths and weaknesses in its value chain, using annual reports, to determine if the firm has created a sustainable competitive advantage by creating value for its customers. Emphasis is on corporate, business and functional level strategic analysis and strategy formulation which enhances value creation for stakeholders. The course serves to integrate and synthesize knowledge acquired in the functional disciplines of the business school curriculum by application of acquired functional skills to corporate and business strategic analysis.

Students are required to carry out extensive empirical business research for this course using multiple government (e.g., Statistics Canada, US Census Bureau, Federal Reserve FRED, Bank of Canada) and private databases (e.g., Bloomberg, Mergent, Factiva, and Business Source Premier). Students must select an approved, publicly-traded, for-profit business firm; research the firm; perform a comparative empirical strategic analysis; and develop and present Corporate, Business and Functional strategies for the firm.

Course Learning Objectives:

1. To familiarize the student with strategic thinking and its component elements, the identification of strategic options and techniques for strategy selection.
2. To integrate the functional knowledge acquired in past business courses by applying those functional skills to analyze a single firm and recommend appropriate strategies.
3. To understand key strategic concepts such as corporate strategy, business strategy, driving forces, key success factors, value chain analysis, economies of scope, core competencies and sustainable competitive advantage.
4. To significantly enhance applied business research skills using primary data sources eg Stats Canada, US Census Bureau and enhance presentation skills.
5. Develop an understanding of the cross-functional and interdependent nature of strategic business decisions.

APPLIED STRATEGY RESEARCH PROJECT

This is an extremely demanding course. Students are required to complete an extensive applied empirical business research project for this course. Students will form groups of four ie 4 students MAXIMUM, select a publicly traded company on the US or the Toronto stock exchanges, research the company and its competitive environment, and develop a strategic analysis. The following overview serves as an introduction to the project and covers these topics:

- Library research services
- Group selection guidelines
- Company selection guidelines
- Feedback and communication with professor

Library Research Services

Matt Gertler, Business, Economics, and Government Information Librarian, and Betsy Schuurman, Business and Government Information Technician, provide support for students in finding and using business and government information required for this course.

Supports include:

- Get help at drop-ins for finding data, including using Bloomberg Professional and other business databases, in the Computer Lab (Room 103 on the first floor of the Library near the tunnel entrance). There are 8 Bloomberg Professional terminals in the Computer Lab. Drop-ins are scheduled for every weekday (Monday – Friday) from 2-4pm until Winter Break. Check the schedule on the Library website.
- Students can email business.library@carleton.ca at anytime with questions about finding data for your assignment.
- Students can schedule one-on-one or group consultations in the Computer Lab or virtually by appointment by using Betsy's Booking page.

The volume of information available can be overwhelming. The Library course guide and tutorial cover several of the databases available to support your research and will help you access those resources most likely to be useful to your research. This course discourages the use of data aggregators found online through Googling and AI. This includes sources like Statista, Trading Economics, and Macrotrends as well as AI generated content. Attending Library sessions and getting help from Library staff will help you learn how to find reliable empirical data. Library staff will help you learn how to access information using the top recommended sources for the assignment – government, public company information, major consulting / accounting firms, reputable business media, and legitimate business research databases accessible through the Library website.

The Business and Economics Librarian at the MacOdrum Library has prepared an intensive tutorial for the second week of class. Attendance at this class is a mandatory requirement for this course, for without this training, it will be difficult for you to undertake the required research and you will not be able to fulfill your obligations to your project team. This compulsory class provides an excellent overview of the significant subscription database resources available to you as a student at Carleton University. Students are strongly encouraged to review the BUSI 4609 course guide, available on the Library website, as well as the Library Resources module on your course Brightspace prior to the second week of class.

Group Selection Guidelines

The Sprott School of Business encourages group assignments in the school for several reasons. Before embarking on a specific problem as a group, it is your responsibility to decide which member is responsible for which section of the research.

Students will self-organize themselves into groups of four (4) maximum. Groups will be finalized during the first class; it is highly recommended that you organize your team prior to start of term. Groups of 4 or 3 or 2 or 1 are acceptable. Groups of 5 or more are completely unacceptable.

Each term, some groups experience conflict concerning the relative contribution of each student. Try to resolve it amongst yourselves. You are about to enter the business or professional world where you are responsible for your own choices and decisions. When conflict cannot be resolved, I will split the group into two groups – each of which will continue to analyze the firm originally selected.

Company Selection Guidelines

It is the responsibility of the student group to select the business firm that will be the basis of the assignments and comprehensive strategic analysis. It is the students' responsibility to undertake the preliminary research necessary to determine if sufficient information is available on the company. The selection of a business firm is an assurance – by the students to the professor – that there is sufficient information available to complete the assignments and strategic analysis.

Firm selection must be authorized by the professor, to ensure that two groups do not select the same business firm or an ineligible firm. Authorization by the professor is not a guarantee that there is sufficient information. Should it subsequently become apparent that there is insufficient information to adequately complete the assignments, it is the students' responsibility to select a new firm and obtain authorization to make the change. The students may change the selection of the business firm at any time prior to the due date of the first assignment but must receive the necessary approval.

Although a firm that the student has selected in another course is eligible for the capstone project, you are reminded it is a violation of academic plagiarism policy to submit substantially the same analysis for two courses.

Requirements and suggestions for firm selection:

- No two groups may select the same business firm in the same course section
 - Any firms analyzed by other groups for 4609 over the past 24 months are NOT eligible. A list of such ineligible firms will be posted to Brightspace.

- Firms must be publicly listed on a major Canadian or United States stock exchange (i.e., TSX, NYSE, NASDAQ) for at least the past three years, with a minimum of three years financial statements available
 - Government departments, agencies & crown corporations are NOT eligible
 - Not-for-profit organizations (NGOs) are NOT eligible for selection
 - Bankrupt, delisted firms, privately held firms are NOT eligible
 - Firms analyzed in other previous courses by a student is eligible – provided that the student discloses this information to the professor in writing in the first assignment
 - The ENTIRE firm MUST be analyzed – not a division or subsidiary, and must include all markets within which the firm operates (i.e., diversified multinationals should be avoided)
 - Avoid large, multinational conglomerates (e.g., Google, Apple, Facebook, Exxon, BP, Toyota, GE, Disney), as they are too complex
 - Avoid firms doing substantial business around the world (e.g., Exxon, BP, Shell, McDonalds, Starbucks), as they are too complex
 - Avoid very small firms (e.g., less than 1000 employees), as insufficient information to complete a full strategic analysis

Data Reliability

You will be required to use data that is reliable. Therefore, you MUST use the audited annual report of the publicly traded company selected. You will also use data produced by government departments and agencies such as Stats Canada or Transport Canada, the US Bureau of Economic Analysis, or US Federal Reserve FRED or US Department of Energy.

You will also use published reports by the international consulting firms eg Deloitte, KPMG, McKinsey, BCG, Mercer, Gartner.

You may also use the “quality business media” such as Wall Street Journal, Reuters, Bloomberg, Globe ROB, New York Times, Financial Times.

Data Normalization and Comparison

Strategic analysis involves substantial sustained COMPARISON of data that MUST be normalized to allow accurate comparability. For example, an analyst does not compare actual GDP of the US to actual Canadian GDP because US GDP is much larger as the US population is much larger. Instead, we compare GDP per capita to normalize the data and allow comparison that controls for size differences. Ratios and per capita numbers are normalized metrics.

Assignment and Final Report Formatting Guide

All assignments must include:

- File format: Microsoft Word (.docx) is required.
- Font: 14pt basic Times New Roman). Do not use “exotic” embellished fonts.
- Double spacing.
- Margins: 1 inch all around
- Pagination: place page numbers in the upper right margin (header)

Each written assignment should include the following items:

- Cover Page: Include the name of the firm being analyzed, assignment number, and names and student numbers of all group members.
 - Declaration of Academic Integrity: Example included below. Reminder that all group members must sign to obtain a grade on the assignment. It can be placed at the back of the assignment.
 - Executive summary: a one-page executive summary, written by the group and placed before the TOC. All the summaries must be written in paragraph form (i.e., no bullet lists).
 - Table of Contents (TOC): Required for each assignment and the final report. Include major captions and subheadings and of course page numbers. This follows the executive summary.
 - Bibliography: Complete details for all sources using Chicago style (review a good explanation on the library home page) or other recognized format, including specifics on web material and date accessed - date accessed must also be included in the footnotes for all web sources. Bibliography must be in alphabetic order. Note that Microsoft Word also has powerful features to make your source reference management substantially easier.
 - Footnotes: References (same criteria as bibliography) must be included. Do not use endnotes or in text citations. The accuracy of all footnotes and references should also be verified. Cite ALL sources including those from the internet (with date accessed).
 - Graphics: you are expected to insert all graphics (figures and tables of statistics) directly in the text and not in appendices (only normalized company and direct competitor income statements and balance sheets for last 3 years are to be placed in appendices). Provide source information for ALL graphics. Graphics should NOT be split over a page break. Whether you submit a pdf or docx file, please do a thorough formatting review before submitting to ensure that your embedded graphics appear as intended.
 - File size: when pasting in graphical image files, please take care to ensure to format the image to consume minimal disk space at the desired level of resolution.
 - Quotations format: direct quotations may usually be cited inline using quotation marks. When citing a direct quotation of more than 2 lines, single-space and indent at both right and left margins, but do not use quotation marks.
