Course Calendar description from the 2020/21 University calendar:

Business firms' financing, capital investment, and dividend policy decisions, cost of capital and short-term asset management problems.

Course Description:

This is an introductory course in finance. It addresses topics in finance that are important for all managers in organizations to understand. In addition to informing managers generally, these topics amount to an important foundation for higher level finance courses and will be used extensively in those courses. Finally, some of the topics addressed in this course can help with personal financing and investment decisions.

Learning Outcomes:

It is the objective of this course to teach students:

- The principles of time value of money and how to apply them;

- The features of various kinds of financial instruments, how to value them, and how organizations can use them to raise the capital they need;
- Approaches to evaluating investment opportunities and making investment decisions;
- Measures of risk and how they are related to returns; and,
- General analytical skills in structuring and analyzing financial problems.

Reading(s)/Textbook(s)/Required Materials:

Ross, Westerfield, Jordan, Roberts, Pandes & Holloway Fundamentals of Corporate Finance, 10th Canadian Edition, McGraw-Hill Ryerson, 2019. 1259654753 · 9781259654756

Course Requirements & Methods of Evaluation (including due dates):

	Weighting (%)
Participation/team assignments	10
Term test (due date on course schedule)	35
Final exam	55
Total	100

A description of the participation/team assignment component of the course and its evaluation will be provided in class.

The term test will be a two-hour test held virtually comprised of 30 multiple choice questions held in the week indicated. Material covered up to and including the end of Chapter 7 is eligible to be addressed in the term test. Students who are unable to write the term test because of a serious illness/emergency or other circumstances beyond their control, and who provide appropriate supporting documentation, may request accommodation. The instructors will use their best efforts to provide a make-up term test for eligible students in the week following the originally scheduled term test.

The final exam will be a three-hour test comprised of 50 multiple choice questions held virtually during the usual exam period. Material covered during the entire course is eligible to be addressed in the final exam.

In both the term test and the final exam 40-60% of the questions will be based on theory and 40-60% will be quantitative.

An equation sheet and discounting tables will be provided to students prior to the term test and the final exam. Students will also be provided with the equation sheet and discounting tables in the term test and final exam.

In cases where a student's mark on the final exam exceeds the class participation mark, the final exam mark will be substituted for this evaluation item.

Group work

The Sprott School of Business encourages group assignments in the school for several reasons. They provide you with opportunities to develop and enhance interpersonal, communication, leadership, follower-ship and other group skills. Group assignments are also good for learning integrative skills for putting together a complex task. Your professor may assign one or more group tasks/assignments/projects in this course. Before embarking on a specific problem as a group, it is your responsibility to ensure that the problem is meant to be a group assignment and not an individual one.
