Course Calendar description from the 2019/2020 University calendar:

Analysis and evaluation of the organization's corporate and business strategies; integration and synthesis of knowledge acquired in the program by application of acquired functional skills to strategic decision making.

COURSE DESCRIPTION AND REQUIREMENTS

Strategic Management is the Spratt School of Business's capstone course. Completed in the final (4th) year of study in the undergraduate program, this course focuses on strategy making in for-profit business corporations. Students are expected to identify and evaluate opportunities and threats in light of a selected firm's strengths and weaknesses in its value chain in order to develop and maintain a sustainable competitive advantage by creating value for its customers. Emphasis is on corporate and business-level strategic analysis, strategy formulation, and implementation which enhances value creation for stakeholders and potentially leads to higher market share and profitability. The course serves to integrate and synthesize knowledge acquired in the functional disciplines of the business school curriculum by application of acquired functional skills to corporate and business strategic analysis.

Students are required to carry out extensive empirical business research for this course using multiple government (e.g., Statistics Canada, US Census Bureau, International Monetary Fund) and private databases (e.g., Bloomberg, Mergent, Factiva, and Business Source Premier). Students must select an approved, publicly-traded, for-profit business firm; research the firm; perform a rigorous strategic analysis; and develop and present a strategy for the firm.

Learning Objectives:

1. To familiarize the student with strategic thinking and its component elements, the identification of strategic options and techniques for strategy selection.
2. To integrate the functional knowledge acquired in past business courses by applying those functional skills to analyze a single firm and recommend appropriate strategies.
3. To understand key strategic concepts such as corporate strategy, business strategy, driving forces, key success factors, value chain analysis, economies of scope, core competencies and sustainable competitive advantage.
4. To significantly enhance applied business research and presentation skills.
5. Apply theoretical concepts to develop innovative, practical business solutions.
6. Develop an understanding of the cross-functional and interdependent nature of strategic business decisions.

Course Requirements and Student Deliverables:

This is an extremely demanding course. You are required to complete extensive applied empirical business research for this course. You must select a for-profit business firm, research the firm and develop a strategic analysis in conjunction with a team of your fellow students. Assignments, presentations or final reports that do not include substantial data and metrics will receive lower grades – including failure.

Student Deliverables

To obtain a passing grade for the course, all students must complete the following deliverables:

1. Group Assignment 1 (due in Week 4): external / environmental analysis
2. Group Assignment 2 (due in Week 6): internal / value chain analysis
3. Group Assignment 3 (due in Week 8): corporate and business strategy
4. Weekly quizzes
5. Midterm Exam (administered in class during Week 6)
6. Final Exam (administered in class during Week 9)
7. Final Group Presentation (delivered sometime during Weeks 10-13)
8. Final Group Project Report (due one week after group presentation)
9. Individual Executive Summary (due two days after group final report)
10. Peer Evaluations (due two days after final group project report)

Assignments: Each group will research, write and submit three assignments each worth 5% of your overall course grade. The three assignments collectively represent the first draft of your final research report. Detailed assignment requirements will be posted to cuLearn. NOTE: assignments to be submitted electronically via cuLearn; I will not mark printed reports.

Quizzes: Periodic quizzes will be administered via cuLearn at some point during each lecture session; please bring to class an internet-enabled device capable of navigating cuLearn. The quizzes will test for basic understanding of assigned readings.

Midterm exam: A multiple choice examination will be given in the second half of class (i.e., after midway break) during Week 6 of the semester. The midterm exam will cover content from both readings and lectures up to (and including) Week 4 (internal environment). Students may find the midterm exam very difficult if classes are missed or if the textbook and other assigned readings have only been skimmed.

Presentation: Each group will deliver a verbal presentation – with each group member participating – to the class based on the research embodied in the first three group assignments. Three group presentations will be delivered during each class for weeks 10 to 13 of the semester for a total of 12 available presentation time slots. Groups will schedule presentation dates during the first week of class (details will be provided before the semester begins). The presentation shall be 30-35 minutes long. The assigned grade will be based on the quality, effectiveness, and professionalism of the presentation.

Final exam: A multiple choice examination will be given in the normal class period during Week 9 of the semester. The final exam will include questions pertaining to all aspects of strategy (i.e., comprehensive) discussed during class lectures, whether or not found in the text. Students may find the final exam very difficult if classes are missed or if the textbook and other assigned readings have only been skimmed.

Final report: The final written capstone project report must be submitted (upload to cuLearn) to the professor seven (7) days after the verbal presentation. The final report will consist of final, improved versions of the original three assignments. You are not required to provide a printed copy. There is no formal requirement for length of the report; your task is to fulfill all deliverables in as much detail as necessary to make your point, but to strive for conciseness by avoiding superfluous data and unnecessary commentary. NOTE: final reports to be submitted electronically via cuLearn; I will not mark printed reports.

Individual executive summary: Each group member is separately responsible for preparing and submitting a two-page (double-spaced) executive summary to the final group report, due within two days (48 hours) after the final group project report is due. Naturally, I expect team members to work together on the content of the report and discuss together what makes an effective executive summary. However, the actual written executive summary must be solely individual work and be written in your own voice. Two team members that submit substantially the same executive summary text will be marked down accordingly.

Peer evaluations: The group research project represents a substantial amount of work and team members are expected to contribute roughly equally to the team effort. Each student is requested to evaluate the relative contributions of their team members to the overall group project (assignments, presentation, final report) over the course of the semester. Responses will be solicited, confidentially, via private survey on cuLearn. Responses are due within two days (48 hours) after the final group project report is due. Collective evaluations may affect individual marks on the group final project.

Attendance and participation: Students are encouraged to actively participate in all classes by being adequately prepared (i.e., having attentively read the text chapters and any assigned articles). The final exam will include questions pertaining to all aspects of strategy discussed during the class, whether or not found in the text. Students will find the final exam very difficult if classes are missed or if the readings have only been skimmed.

Grading policy:

Final course grades are weighted by assignment as follows:

Three group assignments @ 5% each	15%
Five in-class quizzes @ 1% each	5%
Mid-term examination	10%
Verbal group project presentation	10%
Final group project written report	30%
Final examination	20%
Individual executive summary	10%
TOTAL	100%

Late assignments: The only valid excuse for missing a deadline is for medical reasons or death in the family and must be documented with a medical certificate. Any other reason (such as travel, etc.) will not be considered. In such circumstances, separate arrangements can be made. Under no circumstances will an individual excuse extend to a group assignment. If you miss a deadline for a reason that is not deemed as legitimate, your mark will be zero.

Automatic failure: Failure to write the final exam, or failure to submit the final report and presentation slides, will result in an automatic failure of the course (an “F” grade) and an FND grade (in case of missed Final exam or project).

Grade changes: Informal requests for grade increases are always denied unless there has been a mathematical error. All student deliverables (i.e., exam, assignments, presentation slides and final report) are retained for one year. The student may file an appeal of the final grade pursuant to university regulations. I provide all documentation to the Appeal Committee.

APPLIED STRATEGY RESEARCH PROJECT

This is an extremely demanding course. Students are required to complete an extensive applied empirical business research project for this course. Students will form groups of four or five, select a company, research the company and its competitive environment, and develop a strategic analysis. The following overview serves as an introduction to the project and covers these topics:

- Library research services
- Group selection guidelines
- Company selection guidelines
- Feedback and communication with professor

Library Research Services

The Carleton University MacOdrum Library has prepared an intensive tutorial for the second week of class. Attendance at this class is a mandatory requirement for this course as without this training, it will be nearly impossible for you to do the required research and you will not be able to fulfill your obligations to your project team. This compulsory class provides an excellent overview of the significant electronic database resources available as part of your tuition fees. Students are strongly encouraged to review the BUSI 4609 course guide prior to this class, available at the Library website:

<http://www.library.carleton.ca/research/course-guides/busi-4609>

The volume of information available will easily overwhelm the uninitiated student. The library course guide and tutorial cover several of the databases available to support your research and will guide you toward those resources most likely to be useful to your research.

Group Selection Guidelines

The Sprott School of Business encourages group assignments in the school for several reasons. Before embarking on a specific problem as a group, it is your responsibility to ensure that the problem is meant to be a group assignment and not an individual one.

Students will self-organize themselves into groups of five (5) maximum. Groups will be finalized during the first week lecture period; it is highly recommended that you organize your team prior to lecture. Each student should keep working records and estimated time spent on his/her research and contribution to the team project.

Each term, some groups experience conflict concerning the relative contribution of each student. Try to resolve it amongst yourselves. You are about to enter the business or professional world where you are responsible for your own choices and decisions. I will be available on a limited basis to arbitrate conflicts, but any reorganization of groups is your collective responsibility. Additionally, at the conclusion of the term all students will be asked to evaluate the relative contributions of their teammates; I will take these peer evaluations into consideration when formulating your individual score.

Company Selection Guidelines

It is the responsibility of the student group to select the business firm that will be the basis of the assignments and comprehensive strategic analysis. It is the students' responsibility to undertake the preliminary research necessary to determine if sufficient information is available on the company. The selection of a business firm is an assurance – by the students to the professor – that there is sufficient information available to complete the assignments and strategic analysis.

Firm selection must be authorized by the professor, mainly to ensure that two groups do not select the same business firm or an ineligible firm. Authorization by the professor is not a guarantee that there is sufficient information. Should it subsequently become apparent that there is insufficient information to adequately complete the assignments, it is the students' responsibility to select a new firm and obtain authorization to make the change. The students may change the selection of the business firm at any time prior to the due date of the first assignment but must receive the necessary approval.

Although a firm that the student has selected in another course is eligible for the capstone project, you are reminded it is a violation of academic plagiarism policy to submit substantially the same analysis for two courses.

Requirements and suggestions for firm selection:

- No two groups may select the same business firm in the same course section
- All firms analyzed by other groups for this course over the past 24 months are NOT eligible. A list of such ineligible firms will be posted to cuLearn.

- Firms must be publicly listed on a major Canadian or United States stock exchange (i.e., TSX, NYSE, NASDAQ) for at least the past three years, with a minimum of four years financial statements available
- Government departments, agencies & crown corporations are NOT eligible
- Not-for-profit organizations (NGOs) are NOT eligible for selection
- Bankrupt, delisted firms, privately held firms are NOT eligible
- Firms analyzed in other previous courses by a student is eligible – provided that the student discloses this information to the professor in writing in the first assignment
- The entire firm MUST be analyzed – not a division or subsidiary, and must include all markets within which the firm operates (i.e., diversified multinationals should be avoided)
- Avoid large, multinational conglomerates (e.g., General Electric), as they are likely too complex
- Avoid firms doing substantial business around the world (e.g., McDonalds, Starbucks), as they are likely too complex
- Avoid very small firms (e.g., less than 500 employees), due to insufficient information

Communication with Professor

I do not hold fixed office hours, though I hope you will find me highly accessible. The preferred mode of initial contact on any matter is email. I will make myself available for in-person discussions at my office or online (e.g., Skype, IM) as needs dictate. I provide a high level of support for this course, but I may take up to 24 hours to respond to you on the weekdays and 48 hours on the weekend.

Please use a professional tone and format when writing emails. If anything, this should be an opportunity to develop your professional email communication skills, which will be highly valuable as you embark on your careers.

Please use your MyCarleton (Connect) account to email me and indicate your project number every time you email me. It is Carleton University policy that the university may only contact you through your Connect account. Please check your university email account regularly, as I do use email to communicate with the class. I may send out periodic class emails using cuLearn.

Group work

The Sprott School of Business encourages group assignments in the school for several reasons. They provide you with opportunities to develop and enhance interpersonal, communication, leadership, follower-ship and other group skills. Group assignments are also good for learning integrative skills for putting together a complex task. Your professor may assign one or more group tasks/assignments/projects in this course. Before embarking on a specific problem as a group, it is your responsibility to ensure that the problem is meant to be a group assignment and not an individual one.

In accordance with the Carleton University Undergraduate Calendar (p 34), the letter grades assigned in this course will have the following percentage equivalents:

A+ = 90-100	B+ = 77-79	C+ = 67-69	D+ = 57-59
A = 85-89	B = 73-76	C = 63-66	D = 53-56
A - = 80-84	B - = 70-72	C - = 60-62	D - = 50-52
F = Below 50

Grades entered by Registrar:

WDN = Withdrawn from the course

DEF = Deferred

Academic Integrity

Violations of academic integrity are a serious academic offence. Violations of academic integrity – presenting another's ideas, arguments, words or images as your own, using unauthorized material, misrepresentation, fabricating or misrepresenting research data, unauthorized co-operation or collaboration or completing work for another student – weaken the quality of the degree and will not be tolerated. Penalties may include; a grade of Failure on the submitted work and/or course; academic probation; a refusal of permission to continue or to register in a specific degree program; suspension from full-time studies; suspension from all studies at Carleton; expulsion from Carleton, amongst others. Students are expected to familiarize themselves with and follow the Carleton University Student Academic Integrity Policy which is available, along with resources for compliance at:

<https://carleton.ca/registrar/academic-integrity/>.

Sprott Student Services

The Sprott student services office, located in 710 Dunton Tower, offers academic advising, study skills advising, and overall academic success support. If you are having a difficult time with this course or others, or just need some guidance on how to successfully complete your Sprott degree, please drop in any weekday between 8:30am and 4:30pm. Our advisors are happy to discuss grades, course selection, tutoring, concentrations, and will ensure that you get connected with the resources you need to succeed!
