Precludes additional credit for BUSI 5504.

Prerequisite(s): ACCT 5001 and BUSI 5801.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

In this increasingly complex business environment, senior executives in business and public sector organizations require knowledge of financial management. The course offers a broad overview of finance from the perspective of the financial manager. Starting with the premise that the goal of management is to increase the value of the firm, we will discuss the key decisions – investment and financing - that contribute to shareholder value. The investment side will include analysis of the capital budgeting decision. The financing aspect will focus on equities, bonds, and raising capital in general. Specifically, this course will cover: (i) financial markets, (ii) financial concepts such as time value of money, valuation and yields of financial securities, financial statement analysis, sources of long term financing to a firm, and an overview of the risk-return tradeoffs, and (iii) some basic decision making frameworks, including capital budgeting. This course is an introductory Finance course and provides the necessary foundation for further studies in Finance.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

This course provides the participant with financial management skills and working knowledge that are essential to the effective management of corporations. The objective is to introduce participants to the fundamental concepts, processes, techniques and practices of financial management. The course explores how value can be created through investment and financing decisions, and the management of risks associated with such decisions. The aim is to: (1) provide a description of corporate financial management and the role of the financial manager; (2) to discuss the role of financial markets and institutions that facilitate the process of financial management; (3) to explore the concept of the time value of money to value stocks and bonds; (4) to explore the process of making capital investment, and (5) to introduce the concepts of risk and return.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

This course is designed to enable participants to acquire a broad familiarity with the field of financial management. On successful completion of this course, the participant will have mastered the fundamental financial concepts and techniques, and acquired the ability to apply the techniques to financial problem solving and decision-making in a professional role as a manager or financial analyst. Specifically, on successful completion of this course, you would be able to:

- Explain the goal of Financial Management and the conflicts of interest between managers and owners.
- Compute the future value and present value, and apply the concept of Time value of money to real world financial situations.
- Determine the value of different securities, such as bonds and stocks.
- Develop proficiency in the areas of asset valuation and project evaluation.
- Recognize how stock prices depend on future cash flows and be able to compute stock prices using the dividend growth model.
- Compare and contrast the different criteria used to make investment decisions (Payback rule, accounting rates of return, internal rate of return, net present value rule, etc.).
- Determine the relevant cash flows for a proposed investment and apply NPV criterion using projected cash flows.
- Evaluate the merits of alternative techniques used to evaluate long-term projects.
- Understand how financial markets work and know the historical rate of returns and risks on various types of investments.
- Calculate the expected return and standard deviation (risk) of investment returns and understand the risk-return tradeoff.

PEDAGOGY AND MEASUREMENT OF LEARNING OUTCOMES

To ensure that there is a balance between theory and practice, the pedagogy to be employed in this course includes:

- Lectures & discussions
- Group work
- Case analyses & syndicate presentation
- Individual exercises

Learning outcomes will be measured through:

- Student's participation and contribution in class
- Take home assignments
- Case Studies/Group Work
- Examinations

To facilitate the financial analysis that we will be doing in this course, a financial calculator may be needed; Texas Instruments BAII plus is recommended.

GRADING

The following scoring/weighting scheme will be applied to assess performance of course participants

	Marks	Due date:
• Pre-class individual assignment	10%	handed out Dec 6: due Dec 13
• Take home group case analysis	20%	handed out Dec 14: due Dec 19
• In-class syndicate case analysis & presentations	20%	Dec 13 & 14
• Final Examination (take home) individual	40%	Dec 23
• Participation	10%

PRE-CLASS ASSIGNMENT

The assignment is an individual homework consisting of a set of problems. It will cover some material or application of material you covered in the MBA math prep session and Chapters 1 and 2 of the textbook, which you are required to read before the first class. To give you enough time to do the assignment, the pre-class assessment will be sent to you two weeks prior to the first class.

TAKE HOME GROUP CASE ANALYSIS

Form your group of 4 students. At the end of the session on the second day, your group will be assigned a case for analysis. Your assignment will be type-written, professionally prepared, with executive summary, a detailed analysis of the case, and appendices showing your workings.

IN-CLASS SYNDICATE CASE ANALYSIS AND PRESENTATION

On the second day, you and your group members will be assigned problems and mini case for analysis during break-out session. Your group will do a short presentation of your analysis. You will submit a written analysis of the mini-case case for grading at the end of the presentation.

On Case Analysis

The learning in the class will focus more on the thought process in analyzing business situations, not just on the solutions per se. In order to derive maximum benefits from the cases, it is essential that you mentally 'get inside' the case situation. Do not approach a case as you would a chapter in a book or an article in a magazine. You are not an observer, but a participant. If a case centers on a decision that needs to be made, put yourself in the shoes of the manager/decision maker. Feel the frustration he or she feels with respect to data limitations. Feel the pressures s/he feels with respect to difficult tradeoffs, limited resources, political conflicts, or whatever. Once in class, share your ideas with others.

In preparing the cases, the following simple rules may be useful:

- (1) Adopt a management posture in analyzing cases. Use the assignment questions as a guide only. Your answer should highlight what you, as a manager, see as the strengths or weaknesses in a given situation.
- (2) Familiarize yourself with the facts of the case. Outline the industry and competitive context and the core strategic tasks that the firm should excel at.
- (3) Support your analysis with facts from the case. Most cases will not contain all data you might like to have. Nevertheless, you'll be surprised at how easily you can make accurate inferences and useful assumptions if you simply give the current management the benefit of the doubt.

FINAL EXAM

The final examination will be take-home exam and will test your understanding of the topics that will be covered in both the lecture and case components of the course. Practice questions that will be posted on CULearn will help you prepare for the exams.

DROP COURSE POLICY

The deadline for academic withdrawal is the last day of classes (each term).

DEFERRED FINAL EXAMINATION

Students unable to write a final examination because of illness or other circumstances beyond their control must contact the instructor in writing to request a deferred exam. Permission may be granted when their request is supported by a medical certificate and or appropriate document/s to support the reason for the deferral. Deferred exams will not be granted for students who make travel arrangements that conflict with the examination schedule.

CULearn

We will be using CULearn frequently in this course. You should use your student ID and password to access CULearn. If you want to ask me a question electronically, you will have to send the email through MyCarleton (Connect).

Group work

The Sprott School of Business encourages group assignments in the school for several reasons. They provide you with opportunities to develop and enhance interpersonal, communication, leadership, follower-ship and other group skills. Group assignments are also good for learning integrative skills for putting together a complex task. Your professor may assign one or more group tasks/assignments/projects in this course. Before embarking on a specific problem as a group, it is your responsibility to ensure that the problem is meant to be a group assignment and not an individual one.
