COURSE DESCRIPTION

Models of individual and small group behaviour in organizations. Topics include motivation, communication, job design, leadership and group dynamics to provide systematic explanations of employee and managerial behaviour in organizations.

TEXT

The following text is required: Osland, J. et al. Organizational Behavior: An Experiential Approach (Eighth edition). Upper Saddle River, NJ: Pearson. ISBN 0-13-144151-5.

Please note that without the text, you will have difficulty with the exams. Your first impression may be that the course content is “common sense”, but don’t fall into this trap. You will need to know the theories and concepts behind it.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Following the successful completion of the course, you should be able to:

1. Recognize, define, and discuss the terminology, concepts, basic principles, analytic techniques, and theoretical underpinnings of human behaviour in organizations.
2. Explain how behavioral science research can be applied to specific business situations.
3. Describe how organizations use OB theory in practice and the impact of these strategies at the individual, group and organizational level.
4. Use your understanding of OB to appraise your own behavior in organizational settings.
5. Apply your knowledge in real-life business situations using the appropriate terminology, concepts, basic principles, analytic techniques, and theoretical underpinnings of OB.

CLASS FORMAT

This course meets two times per week. The instructional method requires a high level of student participation.

The first session (Monday mornings) is a “large format” or “plenary” session including all students registered in BUSI 2101. Each of these sessions will be conducted by a different professor from the Sprott School of Business. It is very important to attend the plenary, as the material covered will not correspond exactly to the text or interactive sessions, and you will be responsible for the material at exam time.

The second session is an “interactive” in which you will meet with a smaller group of your peers. These sessions are led and conducted by Interactive Teachers in the Training & Development program. These instructors are your “go-to” people throughout the term if you have any questions or issues. They are here to help you in any way they can. If you wish to communicate with them through email, you should do so with the messaging function on CULearn.

EVALUATION

1.	Personal Reflection Paper	10%
2.	In-Class Quizzes	10%
3.	Midterm Test	20%
4.	Movie/Series Analysis	15%
5.	Contribution to Interactive Sessions	15%
6.	Final Exam	30%
Total		100%

1. Personal Reflection Paper

This is written individual assignment worth 10% of your course grade. The paper will be 5 pages or less (typed, double-spaced). Details about the paper will be given in class.

2. In-class Quizzes

In each interactive session you will be given a short set of questions related to the Monday lecture to assess your understanding of the material. 1% per week, for a total of 10%.

3. Mid-Term Test

The mid-term test will be held in regularly scheduled course time, during the Monday session on October 31st at 2:35 pm. You must be present to write this test. The test will cover all material covered in the text, lectures, in-class discussions and slide presentations through weeks 1-5. The test will consist of a combination of essay and multiple-choice questions. Be aware that this is NOT a predominantly multiple-choice exam, and will require that you know the concepts and be able to provide examples to illustrate your understanding. This may be the first time you will write this kind of exam, so pay particular attention to the format, and be sure to attend the exam review sessions conducted by your interactive teachers.

4. Movie/Series Analysis

An OB-based Analysis of a Film or TV Series, to be uploaded onto the cuLearn site, is worth 15% of the course grade. Please note that technological problems do not justify late submissions.

You will sign up for your desired film or series during your fourth Interactive Session. Your options will be given to you the third week.

The analysis should be 2,000 words in length. It should be divided into two approximately equal parts, one reflective and the other critical. In the reflective portion, ask yourself: What did I observe in this material and what possible meanings could these observations have? The key task here is to gather as many observations as possible from different points of view. The main skill to work on is perspective taking, or what some people call “re-framing.” Try to look at this experience and describe it from different perspectives. For example, how did certain characters view the situation and what did it mean to them? What would a neutral (“objective”) observer have seen and heard? What perspective did you have – in other words, how did it affect you? Reflect on these observations to discover the personal meaning that the material had for you.

In the second, conceptual portion, use at least two concepts or theories from the course material to look beneath the surface at why people involved behaved the way they did. Provide the source for each reference in the appropriate format. In reviewing theoretical material, first, briefly define the concept or theory as you would for someone who was not familiar with it. Next, apply the concept thoroughly to your example. The tie-in should include the specific details of how the theory relates to and provides insight into the example. Does the example support or refute the theory? Avoid merely providing a “book report” of what you have watched – you should discuss how you see concepts and theories relating to key examples, events, or characters. Do not simply write a synopsis.

Special Notes regarding written assignments

- Deadlines are strict. Failure to meet deadlines will result in grade penalties of 10% per day. Assignments more than 7 days (1 week) late will be considered missed.
- The quality of your writing is an important component of effectively presenting your “ideas”. If you need or would like coaching on your writing skills, help is available to you at the writing tutorial service (WTS) at www.carleton.ca/wts/.

5. Contribution to Interactive Sessions

Worth 15% of total course grade. You are expected to attend each interactive session in which you are enrolled. Your enrollment in the session is understood as a commitment that you will not only attend but also contribute significantly to it. You should also use sessions to raise questions you may have about lecture or reading material. This requires that you prepare for each session by reading and preparing assigned materials. Both the quantity and quality of contributions will be noted. High-quality contributions draw explicitly on assigned material and they add to the session experience by considering implications, offering insights and inviting exchange. Overall, try to be more analytical than descriptive, more curious than definitive and more imaginative than traditional in your verbal contributions. Avoid simply saying 'yes' or 'I disagree' or repeating points already made. Participation and preparation grades will be based on attendance, quizzes, assignments, and participation in class activities (e.g., class discussions/group exercises).

6. Final Exam

The final exam will be held during the formal examination period. The exam will be cumulative and will be based on all topics covered in the course (text, lectures, in-class discussions, presentations, etc.), throughout the entire term. The exam format will be similar to that of the midterm (see above).

Group work

The Sprott School of Business encourages group assignments in the school for several reasons. They provide you with opportunities to develop and enhance interpersonal, communication, leadership, follower-ship and other group skills. Group assignments are also good for learning integrative skills for putting together a complex task. Your professor may assign one or more group tasks/assignments/projects in this course. Before embarking on a specific problem as a group, it is your responsibility to ensure that the problem is meant to be a group assignment and not an individual one.

Academic Regulations, Accommodations, Etc.

University rules regarding registration, withdrawal, appealing marks, and most anything else you might need to know can be found on the university's website, here:

<http://calendar.carleton.ca/undergrad/regulations/academicregulationsoftheuniversity/>

Requests for Academic Accommodations

The Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) provides services to students with Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/mental health disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), chronic medical conditions, and impairments in mobility, hearing, and vision. If you have a disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact PMC at 613-520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation. If you are already registered with the PMC, contact your PMC coordinator to send me your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term, and no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable). Requests made within two weeks will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis. After requesting accommodation from PMC, meet with me to ensure accommodation arrangements are made. Please consult the PMC website (www.carleton.ca/pmc) for the deadline to request accommodations for the formally-scheduled exam (if applicable).

For Religious Obligations: Students requesting academic accommodation on the basis of religious obligation should make a formal, written request to their instructors for alternate dates and/or means of satisfying academic requirements. Such requests should be made during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist, but no later than two weeks before the compulsory event.

Accommodation is to be worked out directly and on an individual basis between the student and the instructor(s) involved. Instructors will make accommodations in a way that avoids academic disadvantage to the student.

Students and instructors can confirm accommodation eligibility of a religious event or practice by referring to the Equity Services website (<http://carleton.ca/equity/accommodation/religious-observances/>) for a list of holy days and Carleton's Academic Accommodation policies. If there are any questions on the part of the student or instructor, they can be directed to an Equity Services Advisor in the Equity Services Department for assistance.

For Pregnancy:

Pregnant students requiring academic accommodations are encouraged to contact an Equity Advisor in Equity Services to complete a letter of accommodation. The student must then make an appointment to discuss her needs with the instructor at least two weeks prior to the first academic event in which it is anticipated the accommodation will be required.

Academic Integrity

Violations of academic integrity are a serious academic offence. Violations of academic integrity – presenting another's ideas, arguments, words or images as your own, using unauthorized material, misrepresentation, fabricating or misrepresenting research data, unauthorized co-operation or collaboration or completing work for another student – weaken the quality of the degree and will not be tolerated. Penalties may include; a grade of Failure in the submitted work and/or course; academic probation; a refusal of permission to continue or to register in a specific degree program; suspension from full-time studies; suspension from all studies at Carleton; expulsion from Carleton, amongst others. Students are expected to familiarize themselves with and follow the Carleton University Student Academic Integrity Policy which is available, along with resources for compliance at:
